Production Operator – Southern Foothills

Reporting to the Area Foreman, the Production Operator will operate, monitor and test oil/gas wells as per Vermilion and Regulatory guidelines and requirements; assist with operational and engineering strategies to optimize production, and will be Vermilion's offsite Emergency Response Commander.

Position Responsibilities:

- Safe operation and monitoring of oil and gas facilities, associated wells, and related equipment;
- Routine inspection and adjustment of assigned facilities and wells;
- Hazard identification, reporting, and corrective action follow-up;
- Optimization and troubleshooting of daily well production;
- Routine maintenance on Vermilion facilities to maintain safe and efficient operations;
- Daily production input and balancing of well data;
- Optimization of production by proposing innovative strategies on how best to improve well and facility productivity; and
- Accurate test measurement of gas, condensate/oil and water production on a daily basis.

The ideal candidate will have:

- Experience working as a TEAM player to achieve assigned Area Targets;
- At least 8-10 years of relevant industry experience (strong preference toward oil operations);
- Demonstrated commitment to HSE expectations and requirements;
- Formal Operational and Safety training including: Solis (level C) First Aid/CPR, H2S Alive, DG/WHMIS, Fire Extinguisher Training, Ground Disturbance (level II), Defensive Driving;
- Software experience in field data capture (Fieldview) and electronic flow measurement systems; and
- Ability to coach and mentor others.

This position is located in the Drayton Valley area.
